INTERCONTINENTAL®
DANANG SUN PENINSULA RESORT

Cultivating Artistry

InterContinental Danang Sun Peninsula Resort is a haven of artistry, led by renowned international experts, including celebrated chefs, wellness professionals, event planners, conservationists and many more.

A prime example of this is La Maison 1888, the colonial Indochine mansion which became the first and only restaurant in Vietnam to partner with a Michelin three-starred chef. Pierre Gagnaire, the culinary icon and owner of the eponymous Pierre Gagnaire restaurant in Paris, became one of the resort's creative collaborators in 2016. Since he joined, this iconic dining destination has won a string of prestigious awards, including being named on CNN's "Top 10 World's Best Restaurants" list, as the "World's Leading Fine Dining Hotel Restaurant" at the World Travel Awards, and one of Architectural Digest's "Top 10 Most Beautiful Restaurants in the World".

La Maison 1888 is also home to the largest restaurant wine cellar in Vietnam and a professional sommelier has curated a collection of rare labels, many of which can be found nowhere else in Vietnam. This impressive wine list has helped the restaurant to win Wine Spectator's "Best of Award of Excellence" every year since 2018.

With its romantic main restaurant, expansive outdoor terrace and three themed private dining rooms, La Maison 1888 is an exceptional epicurean destination, and it is working on achieving even greater international accolades in future.

Other outstanding culinary encounters can be enjoyed at Citron, where outdoor tables appear to float above the hillside and guests can savor authentic Vietnamese cuisine, or Barefoot, the chic beachfront restaurant situated just steps from the ocean. Expert mixologists are on hand at the 50-meter L_O_N_G Bar to shake up cool cocktails, including the signature InterContinental Sala Negroni, while The Buffalo Bar is a sophisticated spot to enjoy premium French Champagne, Scotch whisky and Cuban cigars.

The resort's commitment to presenting the finest products and experiences extends to every aspect of the guest journey. From architecture and interiors by Bill Bensley, to the construction of The Summit, a venue capable of staging the 25th APEC Summit, and becoming one of the only hotels worldwide to hire its own dedicated zoologist, InterContinental Danang Sun Peninsula Resort brings artistry to every stay.

All of this is underpinned by the unwavering five-star standards of InterContinental Hotels & Resorts, the premium brand of the IHG, which is celebrating 75 years of luxury hospitality in 2022.
